The Bonnier Eight Month Report October 2016

Clio Online Launched

DIGITAL SERVICE. Digital subject portals from Bonnier Education hit Swedish schools.

OTO: CLIO ON

BONNIER EDUCATION has launched the new digital learning materials publisher Clio Online in Sweden. The learning materials consist of 10 portals for 10 subjects as well as a self-regulating system with assignments for secondary school students.

THE NEW DIGITAL materials differ from typical educational materials used in Swedish schools today. On the subject portals, teachers and students will find finished school-term plans and lots of activities filled with video, audio and photos.

Clio Online is used today by 90 percent of Denmark's primary schools and with the Swedish launch, teachers from 60 percent of Sweden's schools applied to test the new learning materials already prior to the launch. The first sales are underway to Swedish schools now.

At the company's new Swedish offices, 30 new editors sit creating 11 new subject portals for middle grades, which will be launched at the start of school in 2017.

Investment in Natural Cycles

GROWTH MEDIA. SEK 50 million investment round in fertility app Natural Cycles.

THE STOCKHOLM-BASED fertility app Natural Cycles has raised an SEK 50 million (USD 6 million) Series A from Bonnier Media Growth and existing investors Sunstone and E-ventures to fuel international expansion and perform additional clinical studies.

NATURAL CYCLES, a clinically tested fertility app that has been shown to be as effective as the contraceptive pill at preventing pregnancies, launched in 2014 and counts more than 100,000 users in 161 countries with the large majority of users in Sweden. Natural Cycles reported revenues of USD 2 million in 2015, its first full year of trading.

"Natural Cycles has a unique product and a best-in-class team with a combination of scientific, technology and business competencies," says Ulrika Saxon, head of Bonnier Growth Media. * he second four months of 2016 were marked by acquisitions and investments as well as product launches.

At the end of August, leading online learning materials company Clio Online, which is used by 90 percent of Danish schools, launched in Sweden with great promise. Also in August, a new data-based service and online platform for foodlovers was launched in Denmark and Norway, with a wide range of content from all of Bonnier's Scandinavian magazine publishers.

In July, Scandinavia's venerable and leading film and TV production company, Svensk Filmindustri, relaunched itself as SF Studios. A new CEO for SF Studios, Michael Porseryd, was also announced in late September.

Investments included Growth Media's purchase of shares in fertility app Natural Cycles, book publisher John Blake Publishing in the U.K. and Netdoktor in Sweden. On the divestment side, Magazine app publishing platform Mag+ was sold to MPS, an Indiabased software company.

I'm pleased to say that we made several important changes in several leading management roles, including Karmo Kaas-Lutsberg taking over from Anders Eriksson as head of the business area Business to Business, and the hiring of Sami Vikback, formerly of Discovery Network Sweden, to head the Finnish ad-financed TV business at MTV.

Finally, in mid-September we received a EUR 100 million European Investment Bank loan under very competitive terms and conditions, which will be used to further our digital transformation. It was a great way to start the final four months of the year. *

Acquisitions & Investments

A Million Subscribers

TV. On-demand service TV4 Play finds big success with sign ups.

IN SPRING 2016, Swedish video-on-demand service TV4 Play switched from being open to being a sign-up service – users are required to log in, although the basic service remains free. Some three months later, TV4 Play reached the million-subscriber mark.

"By requiring users to log in, we can learn more about them and their viewing habits," says Mathias Berg, COO for the TV4 Group. "This allows us both to adapt the service and to make it more userfriendly – as well as provide our advertisers with clear target audiences based on our own first-party data."

AN INITIAL DIP in viewers was less than expected, and the service reached 1 million sign ups by early September – a goal the network hadn't expected to reach until Christmas 2016. "With this, we are well on our way to becoming Sweden's biggest sign-up TV service in all categories," says Berg. *

EXECUTIVE MANAGEMENT. New head for the business area.

KARMO KAAS-LUTSBERG has been named head of Bonnier's B2B business area. As head of the business area, he is also now part of Bonnier AB's executive management team.

serving as CFO and country manager in Estonia, and later as Real Estate & Technical Sourcing Director at ICA's Baltic headquarters in Riga.

Further back, he worked as a journalist at Äripäev, Bonnier's Estonian business daily.

Kaas-Lutsberg replaces Anders Ericsson, who took over as head of the Bonnier News business area in early summer. *

Bonnier Business Media Acquires Netdoktor

DIGITAL SERVICE. Strengthening the medicine and health media portfolio.

BONNIER BUSINESS MEDIA has acquired all the shares in Sweden's leading independent health portal, Netdoktor, which has a million unique visitors per month.

"We look forward to adding Netdoktor to our other strong brands within medicine and health," said Mikael Nestius, CEO for Bonnier Business Media Sweden AB. "With, among others, Dagens Medicin and Medibas, we're alnetdoktor se Sveriges ledande hälsoportal!

ready the leader within Swedish healthcare and with Netdoktor, we add the most powerful media used by the country's active patients."

NETDOKTOR'S GOAL is to improve public health through information about health and medicine in language that anyone can understand. More than a hundred Swedish doctors, specialists and other medical experts write, edit and update the content on Netdoktor, as well as answer questions sent in by users and in online chats.

Bonnier Business Media already had minority shares in Netdoktor, and Mikael Nestius has served on Netdoktor's board of directors. *

Måltid for Foodlovers

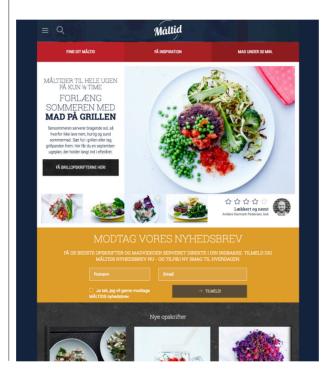

LAUNCH. A new online platform launched in Denmark and Norway gives consumers what they're looking for with the help of data.

MÅLTID is Bonnier's new digital foodie magazine that aims to deliver a better user-experience based on exciting content. The digital service was launched in Denmark on August 8 at maaltid.nu and on August 23 in N orway under the Tara brand as Tara Måltid at maaltid.no.

WITH A STRONG ingredient database that spans all Bonnier AB's Scandinavian markets, Måltid allows users to find recipes that contain specific ingredients but excludes others. The recipes on the site come from Bo Bedre, I Form, Tara, Allt om Mat etc. and have all been data-optimized to allow better usage of the recipes both editorially and commercially. The editorial team behind Måltid also will produce new content for the busy family to supplement exciting recipes.

MÅLTID is a project developed in close collaboration among Bonnier Publications and Benjamin Media in Denmark, Bonnier Media in Norway and Bonnier Tidskrifter in Sweden.

"ONE OF THE fantastic things about this project is that it was achieved in close collaboration among our teams in Denmark, Norway and Bonnier Tidskrifter in Sweden. It shows what we can do when we work together," said CEO of Bonnier Publications Jesper Buchvald at the launch of Måltid. *

Changes for SF Studios

FILM. New CEO and new name for the Nordic film distributor and producer.

IN MAY, Svensk Filmindustri announced it was rebranding itself as SF Studios as part of its new international focus. And in late September, Michael Porseryd was named as new CEO, taking over in Q1 2017.

WITH A LIBRARY of movie rights with over 1,800 Nordic titles, it is a major distributor of foreign films in the Nordic market in addition to its own production and distribution.

SINCE BECOMING part of Bonnier Growth Media in 2012, SF Studios has focused on restructuring its operations to meet market demands, the new digital reality and opportunities beyond the Nordic borders with initiatives such as the launch of video-ondemand service SF Kids. *
